OTTER SELF-BAILING RAFTS

For more than 40 years, NRS Otter Rafts have set the standard for quality and longevity on the river. It starts with our Pennel Orca material, which stands up to abrasion, sunlight, and chemical exposure like no other raft fabric. Each seam, handle, and D-ring is hand cut and glued by experienced craftsmen. For extra durability, we add urethane armor to the bottoms of the tubes and frame-wear patches to the tops. Every Otter is built with four separate air chambers and equipped with reliable, repairable Leaffield C7 valves.

HANDMADE TO BE HANDED DOWN.

There's nothing more gratifying than sharing your love of the river with family and friends. An Otter Raft is an investment in what matters—teamwork, tradition, and unforgettable outdoor experiences. In the age of next-day delivery and disposable everything, Otters are the outlier. Meticulously handmade with enduring Pennel Orca fabric, building each boat takes more than 50 hours. For a raft that will last your lifetime and be passed to the next generation, we figure that's time well spent.

APPROACH 120 ORVIS EDITION RAFT

Combining more than 200 years of experience on the water, Orvis and NRS teamed up to create a hardworking boat for adventurous anglers fishing the waters less traveled. The Approach 120 Orvis Edition gives you the flexibility to fish anywhere, anytime, anyhow. This lightweight raft requires no trailer, no boat ramp. Slide it between the wheel wells of a full-size pickup or strap it to the roof of an SUV. The frame easily adapts to what the day demands. Go fully rigged for a family float or strip it down for light-and-fast missions off the grid.

PERSONAL FISHING CRAFTS

It's never been easier to escape the crowds and Catch the Adventure™. While we love getting the crew together for a weekend getaway, sometimes it's best to hang the 'Gone Fishing' sign on the door and head out for some solo R&R.

We've expanded our personal fishing craft lineup so adventure anglers can have the freedom to choose the when, where, and how, without compromise.

OXBOW 85

The Oxbow 85 combines the versatility of a kick boat with the maneuverability of a raft. Whitewater-grade oars make rowing from spot to spot a breeze, and the fully open bow encourages the use of kick fins to maintain the perfect position while keeping your hands free to tie, cast, and land.

Whether you're looking to add water to your next camping trip, challenge yourself on harder and more remote rivers, fish the waters less traveled, or complete an amphibious e-bike route, NRS has a packraft designed and built for you.

MORE LAPS, MORE LAUGHS.

You've had a great run, but you've been fantasizing about dry clothes and onion rings for the last half hour. Then, somebody (you know who) chirps, "Another lap?" Part invitation, part challenge. You want to shoulder your boat and say, "I'm in!" But you also want to get warm and dip salty fried things in sweet, creamy ranch. With the right gear, you can have it both ways. More paddling, more smiles, more motivation to earn some 'tots too.

CHILL, NOT CHILLY.

Not every outing needs to be an adventure. Some days we just want sun, scenery, conversation and the cadence of a forward stroke—maybe a picnic with a wine pairing (just us?!). To keep a chill tour from becoming cold, preparation is paramount. Along with reading the weather and tides (and making sure the pinot complements the tapenade), we need to dress for the conditions, expected and otherwise. NRS outerwear pairs perfectly with your technical layers and PFD to extend your fair-weather window.

TRAVEL RIVER-READY.

Purpose-built for rogue waves, unexpected swims, or summer storms, our designers use advanced materials and construction methods for go-anywhere storage that puts roller bags to shame. Throw them in the boat, toss them in the truck and breathe easy knowing there's a reason boaters across the globe rely on NRS dry bags and duffels to stow and transport the goods.

BORN ON THE RIVER...

Back in the '70s, NRS founder Bill Parks would float down Northwest rivers, handing out catalogs to boaters as he went. (Heckuva business model, right?) The folks he met didn't always have clothes on, but when they did, they wore cotton tees, cutoff jeans and thrift-store western shirts. NRS was born on the river, and so was our clothing, designed for performance from the gorge to the canyon rim with a tip o' the hat to our freewheeling roots.

NAILED IT!

The secret to outdoor gear innovation? If you ask our friend Clyde (imagine an OG rafter named Clyde, and you'll be spot on), it's to "nail two things together that ain't been nailed together before." While you can't take everything Clyde says at face value, with the Silkweight Hybrid Hoodie, he hit the nail on the head. Combine the structured pockets of a working shirt with the breathable stretch of a sun hoodie, and the result is greater than the sum of its parts.

Durable, woven poly-spandex panels in the shoulders, back, and chest add abrasion resistance without limiting movement or breathability.

Made with brrr® Pro fabric, which features advanced wicking technology for all-day cooling comfort and antimicrobial properties to prevent odors.

Slightly dropped rear hem provides additional coverage.

Two mesh-lined, hidden-zippered chest pockets stash flies and small essentials.

NOT OUR FIRST RODEO.

54 years on the water have taught us (at least) two things. 1) Western wear is as much a part of river vibes as out-of-tune Wagon Wheel covers. 2) Those pearl-snap classics don't always fit or feel as good as they look. For our Rodeo and Ace-High Shirts, we took functional inspo from our thrift-store faves, added modern activewear performance, and let 'er ride. These shirts will keep you cool and comfortable, whether it's your first trip to the roundup or 12th time down the canyon.
